Will Knight Commits Suicide by Asphyxiation

DESPONDENCY THE CAUSE

The Deceased Had Been a Hard Drinker, and Didn's Wish to Burden His Friends Longer.

Will Knight, a barber, doing business at No. 368 South Division street, committed suicide in his shop Thursday night. He used the gas route. He lived with his parents at No. 668 South Henry B. Proctor appointed adminis Innia afreet, but did not go to his home trator. that night. Not appearing at the breakfast table his parents became alarmed and his father, Homer Knight, went to the shop to investigate. He found the door and windows barred and the curtains down. It was about 8 o'clock when he called Patrolman Schuneman, who assisted him to break open the door. A rush of gas nearly overcame them. They threw open the windows to permit the gas to escape. They peered into the room and there saw the form of young Kright lying on a couch. The story was plain to them that the young man been asphyxiated. Three open gas juts were found to c nfirm their suspicion. His coat and snoes lay besale the couch and it was evident the suicide had been dend several hours. Coroner Bradish was summoned.

Explanatory Letters. An examination of the young man's effects revealed several letters addressed to his relatives, in which he stated that he had been a burden to them long enough and that he could not overcome his insatiable thirst for in closing he hade his friends all good by. The coroner decided that it was a case of premeditated spicide and that an inquest was innecessary. He ordered the body taken home in the ambulance. The deceased was a well-known barber and for some time was associated with John Day at the street, under the firm name of Day & Knight. Recently he had been employed by A. H. David at No. 672 Wealthy avenue, but owing to his intemperate habits he lost his po-His brother then bought the shop in which he died There were twenty-five of us cavalry-and placed him in charge under a men returning from one of our fruitless promise that he would do better. INDIAN STRATAGENM. I saw Geronimo and a dozen of his 1887 which I never would have believed possible had I not witnessed it with my

The Apaches are unquestionably the most dreaded tribe of Indians on the continent. They are tougher, more enduring and more unconquerable than any other of their race. An Apache can lope up the side of a mountain with the thermometer marking 120 degs., and when he reaches the top he won't show a drop of extra perspiration, nor will be breathe a whit faster than when he

He will go for days without a morsel of food or a drop of water; he will live on snakes, mice and refuse, or, if the worst comes to the worst, will shoot his herse and eat what he wants of him raw. Set out to pursue a band of Apache raiders, and if they are hard pressed they will separate, each for himself, so that the only way to keep up the pursuit is corner of Cherry and South Division to follow them individually, in which case the Apache is sure to have the best end of the contract. When the hunt is | eral was cool and collected, although the over the dusky miscreants will come together at some point twenty or thirty or more miles away.

There were twenty-five of us cavalrypursuits f the terrible Geronimo. Our horses were worn out, and so were we. It was one of the hottest days I have ever known in that throbbing furnace of a country. We had several miles of baked alkalı plain still to traverse before | pure Christian woman and president of reaching the fort, where we could secure shade and water, and what we needed most of all-rest.

Whew! but it was hot! Had not the air been perfectly dry neither man nor beast could have stood it. The metal work on our guns was so heated that no one could bear to touch it with the naked hand. The air shimmered and which was set for November 2 at 9 a. throbbed as it does over a newly plowed field at noontide of a summer day.

North, east, south and west was one level stretch of plain, on which not a tree, shrub or even a blade of grass grew. Far to the westward could be seen the outlines of the fort, oddly distorted through the quivering atmosphere, but in every other direction was the naked, burning desert.

We were strung along for a distance of several hundred yards. In fact there was a squad of five horsemen much farther than that in the rear. All the animals were plodding slowly through the sand, which it seemed to me was hot enough to roast eggs, their heads drooping, while we were simply enduring it, grimly closing our teeth, holding out to reach the post.

Was there anything to be apprehended The case of George Keidan vs. Wil- from Genonimo? Could we old campaigners be entrapped? Low, level sands on every hand. Well, right there in the midst of that flaming plain, with its $3.00 DETROIT horrible sandy waste, in which no spear of grass could find root, that frightful chieftain and his Apaches ambuscaded us. It sounds incredible, but it is a fact.

Suddenly I heard rifle firing at the rear. It had a dull, odd sound, but it was close at hand, and as I turned in the saddle I saw that the squad farthest away were engaged in a desperate fight | Wednesday, November 2. with a party of Indians, who were on foot, shooting, striking and darting hither and thither like so many demons.

We instantly wheeled and hurried back as fast as we could to the help of our comrades, but before we could reach them three saddles were emptied, and Geronimo and his warriors were scurrying across the plain at a greater speed than any to which we could force our exhausted ponies, who sank to their fetbut they managed to lump off with the trip $6.00. Then they burrowed in the sand, covering themselves entirely with the blistering particles, so that only their snakelike eyes peered forth. Thus we passed within a few ham C. The evidence seems to be beyond question that an offer was sent from Germany to President Henreux, of San Demingo, proposing to pay him $50,000 a year if he would break off the reciprocity treaty with the United States. President Henreux, it seems, sent a special envoy to the United States to see if this country would make a higher bid. The Democratic campaign text book says of the present system of national currency: "It is readily conceded that the currency has been uniform; that the losses from discounts and exchanges have been light; that the system was of great assistance in the struggle for the Union; that depositors have lost little and that note holders have lost nothing."
